

Joy as work starts on Jack's bedroom

FREYA LENG
@freyalengCN

A COUPLE who fundraised to build an accessible bedroom and bathroom for their young son who has a rare genetic condition have two reasons to celebrate this week.

After five months of fundraising, the builders have now started work on Natasha and Michael Power's project – and on the same day they welcomed their new baby daughter into the world.

The 35-year-old couple, of West Wickham, need to build a new bedroom and wet room for their son Jack, who has tuberous sclerosis. The 7-year-old, who attends a local special school, was diagnosed with the condition at just 12 weeks after being rushed to A&E having suffered a seizure.

The condition can lead to growths throughout the body, of which Jack has many spread throughout his brain. This means he has drug-resistant epilepsy, suffering up to 25 seizures a day.

The tumours have delayed his development, and he is autistic and does not speak.

Until now Natasha and Michael have had to carry him upstairs to his special padded bed, but the new accessible bedroom will give him the facilities he needs.

Since the Haverhill News' sister daily paper, the Cambridge News launched the Power Up! campaign in December, hundreds of friends and well-wishers have rallied round to help the family who have now smashed their initial £25,000 target, raising £26,000. And just hours before the builders were about to start on the 12-week project on Monday, Natasha gave birth to Faye at the Rosie – who arrived two days early.

"That was the family joke, she would arrive on the day the builders started," Natasha told the News. "We said that a couple of months ago. Family and friends said 'I bet you she comes when the builders start.'"

Thanks to the generosity of friends and supporters, once the project is complete, the couple will no longer have to carry Jack up and down the stair. He will instead have the space downstairs that he needs.

"It's almost surreal," said Natasha. "Without the the public it would not be going ahead. It's all down to every single one of those people."

"We've been pushing for it for so long. It's a great feeling knowing in a matter of weeks, Jack is going to have his space."

"We can adjust and get used to his routine at home. It's great."

The family have now set up a Facebook page once the build starts to keep people updated on the progress.

Man dies and four injured in crash on A143

A HAVERHILL man died and four more were injured in a crash just outside Haverhill on Saturday.

Robert Grocott, 56, of Hudson Close, was declared dead at the scene of the collision, which took place at around 6pm on Saturday on the A143 Haverhill Road in Little Wratting.

Four more people, two men travelling in Mr Grocott's Land Rover Freelander and two more men in the Vauxhall Vivaro van with which it collided, sustained serious injuries.

They were taken by land ambulance to Addenbrooke's Hospital, where three of them remain in a serious but stable condition. One of the men who was injured has been discharged.

Friends and wellwishers have been expressing their condolences on Facebook. One wrote: "Very sad news, lots of love to all the family."

Police are asking anyone who witnessed the accident to contact the Serious Collisions Investigation Team on 101, quoting CAD 362 of May 7.

RAILWAY

SLIGHTLY FOXED: Mavis visits the Sturmer Arches railway bridge in the video

Mavis looks for the 'missing railway'

A FOXY lady has been looking into the history of Haverhill's rail link.

A new video shows "old Suffolk girl" Mavis visiting the Sturmer Arches railway bridge, the Haverhill Arts Centre and the town's Tesco, site of the old train station.

She says: "The strangest thing about the town is there ain't a rail station no more. There was one years ago, and there are places in the town where you can see where that used to be."

The four-minute video was created by Haverhill
puppeteer Laura Bacon, whose character Patsy May shot to fame on 2014's series of Britain's Got Talent.

She said it started as a small project to get shots of Mavis around the town,
but turned into a mini-documentary about the railway.

Town rail link 'could be viable'

A RAIL link between Haverhill and Cambridge could be good value for money, according to a new report.

Campaign group Rail-future East Anglia says
costs could be kept down by choosing a route which didn't go through the centre of Haverhill.

It also argues that the benefits of the link have been underestimated, as the expected 30 per cent growth of Haverhill – due to 3,500 homes being planned – by 2025 had not been factored in by Greater Cambridge City Deal.

It was responding to a report by Greater Cambridge City Deal which calculated the cost-benefit ratio of a rail link as 0.99 – around half the 2.0 ratio normally needed to get a project off the ground.

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

Railfuture East Anglia says:
"The study only presents a very early analysis of the [cost-benefit ratio] and there are numerous reasons why it will substantially increase with further study."

It adds that the estimates in the City Deal report were around twice the cost per mile of other recent rail re-openings, and the figure for risk and contingency was very high.

A spokesperson for the City Deal said: "The City Deal has a finite budget and a very specific remit to enhance local transport infrastructure, housing and skills in a way that is affordable and proved to support economic growth in the city region."

"We are confident of our earlier analysis and re-opening the disused rail link does not feature in our plans."

"The Haverhill to Cambridge corridor is viewed as a strategic route and the City Deal will soon be consulting on public transport, cycling and walking improvements along the A1307 which would represent good value for money and enable much quicker improvements in this high-growth area."

The Railfuture East Anglia report was discussed at Haverhill Arts Centre on Monday at a meeting of campaign group Rail Haverhill which hopes it will encourage people to sign the petition in support of reinstating the rail link. The petition can be found at www.railhaverhill.org.uk

Photographer raises £450 for children's cancer ward

A WILDLIFE photographer has raised £450 for a children's cancer ward – by raffling off a print of one of his pictures.

Colin Edwards from Haverhill received the print as a prize himself before Christmas, and decided to raffle it off to raise money for the C2 ward at Addenbrooke's Hospital in Cambridge.

"I just thought it was a different charity to raise money for," he said, adding that he had not picked it due to any personal connection.

The competition was entered by 90 people and was won by Haverhill resident Wendy Hanlon, who described the print as "massive and fantastic". Colin visited her to present it on Saturday.

Colin also visited the C2 ward himself around two weeks ago, spending time with the children there who are being treated for cancer and serious diseases. He said: "It was a little bit daunting."

Colin is hoping to continue fundraising for different charities in the future.

SKATE PARK Have a say on urban sports park

YOUNG people are being invited to have a say on a new "urban sports park" – after a previous consultation event proved successful.

The plan to create a facility for skaters, BMX and scooter riders, and freerunners is part of Haverhill Town Council's youth strategy.

The park is set to be created with the input of the town's young people. A previous consultation event on April 28 revealed that they would like the planned facility to provide something for all levels of ability, a quick-drying surface and safety features such as floodlights and CCTV.

Now young people are being invited to go along to a consultation event at 6pm on Thursday, May 19, at the New Croft in the town's Chalkstone Way, which is the preferred site for the urban sports park.

This event will focus on users' aspirations and the design features they would like the new facility to have.

Anyone involved in urban sports is welcome to go along. To find out more email town council arts and leisure manager Nick Keeble at nick.keeble@haverhill-tc.co.uk

CRIME

Police arrests in war on drugs

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

TEN drugs warrants have been executed at Haverhill properties in the last three months, as the police war on drug crime continues.

New Haverhill inspector Danny Cooper – who took on the role at the start of April – said that there were three main ways the police were tackling drug crime in the town. They are targeting drug dealers who come from elsewhere, local Suffolk drug dealers, and providing help for vulnerable people such as addicts.

Insp Cooper said: "Drug dealers might move into a house with a person who's a user. They set themselves up, use intimidation. It's very hard for the vulnerable person to get them to leave."

Since mid-February, 10 drugs warrants have been carried out on Haverhill properties, most recently in Camps Road on Wednesday, May 4.

The Camps Road warrant

DRUG WORK CONTINUES:
Insp Danny Cooper

resulted in a person being arrested on suspicion of possession of a class A drug with intent to supply – one of eight arrests made over the three-month period.

The warrants are part of an operation targeting drug crime across West Suffolk, and have been carried out by a variety of teams including the Bury St Edmunds-based Team Scorpion and the Special Constables Tactical Support Team.

Insp Cooper said that the warrants were carried out based on intelligence, including information that came from members of the public getting in contact with police. He said that all information from the public was useful, even if it needed corroboration before it could lead to a warrant being issued.

He added: "It's encouragement for people still to phone in – we've got Crimsetoppers, 101, the Safer Neighbourhood Team. Although people may not see immediate action, their information might form part of the bigger picture. We are looking for corroboration of information."

Tackling drug crime continues to be one of the Haverhill Safer Neighbourhood Team's priorities.

Insp Cooper said: "These warrants will have an effect and an impact on drug dealing in Haverhill."

If you've seen anything suspicious, call Haverhill Safer Neighbourhood Team on 101 or Crimsetoppers on 0800 555 111.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Waste recycling centre to shut on Wednesdays

HAVERHILL'S waste recycling centre will be closed on Wednesdays from June 1.

The change comes alongside longer opening hours on Thursdays, Sundays and bank holidays as part of changes introduced at centres across Suffolk by the county council.

The changes are based on feedback from waste centre users about the busiest times they are used, with Wednesdays consistently the least busy day.

From June 1 until August, the centre will be open until 7pm on Thursdays, and from June until September, it will be open from 9am to 5pm on Sundays and bank holidays. Currently, it closes at 5pm on Thursdays during the summer and is open from 10am to 4pm on Sundays and bank holidays all year round. Leaflets with the new hours will be available on site.

ENTERTAINMENT

Hypnotist needs licence to thrill town audience

@HannahMirskyCN

AN AUSTRALIAN comedy hypnotist's visit to Haverhill has prompted a council to look at drawing up new guidelines.

Perth-based Matt Hale is to perform at Haverhill Arts Centre on June 16, as part of a comedy line-up which includes such big names as Shappi Khorsandi and Steven K Amos.

Mr Hale's act, which needed a licence for Haverhill, sold out at the Edinburgh Fringe festival. It involves getting 15 to 20 volunteers on stage, putting them into a trance.

He said: "I like to take the mystery out of hypnosis and show them how and why it works."

But to perform a hypnotism show in Haverhill he needed a licence from St Edmundsbury Borough Council. Not to have a licence is an offence punishable by an £1,000 fine.

Following approval to grant a licence for Mr Hale's show, the borough council's licensing committee decided to meet on Tuesday to discuss how it should respond to licensing requests in future and review the process in general.

An officer report stated that licensing reassured the public that "appropriate safeguards" were in place.

Licensing is necessary under the Hypnotism Act 1952, which seeks to balance the ability of hypnotists to put on shows with "legitimate concerns for public safety".

Mr Hale said: "The UK is actually the only place in the world that I work that treats this entertainment differently to other forms of entertainment in terms of stringent licensing and council approval before a performance."

"However having gone through this a number of times for previous UK shows, it's a simple process for me to provide all the information needed to make it as easy as possible for the council."

The Haverhill Arts Centre's comedy line-up for 2016 includes New York stand-up Lewis Schaffer this Saturday and Radio 4 personality Jeremy Hardy on Wednesday, June 1.

After Edinburgh Fringe previews on July 1, the arts centre will host stand-up and TV regular Shappi Khorsandi on Friday, September 23. This will be followed by household name stand-ups Lucy Porter and Stephen K Amos in November – and one more comedian currently appearing on television, who has yet to be announced.

Nick Keeble, arts centre programmer, said: "We've so many big name comedy acts appearing this year it's almost an embarrassment of riches."

Residents can follow the arts centre's Facebook page for updates including the identity of the mystery comedian. Events are bookable at www.haverhillartscentre.co.uk or by calling (01440) 714 140.

THAT'S HANDY: Michael Hannon has started work as Haverhill's new town handyman
Picture: Keith Jones

New handyman takes on task of tidying town

HAVERHILL'S new handyman has set about making the town look clean and tidy.

Michael Hannon, 24, who lives in the town's Carlton Close, started the town council-funded role last Tuesday.

He said: "It's been great. [I've done] all different things just to keep the town clean and maintained: sorting out any weeds that need removing; cleaning up any signage around the town, any seats or furniture; general maintenance."

Mr Hannon said that the reaction to his new role from the public had been positive. "I have had quite a few talks with people passing by – they like what they see."

He has experience in maintenance work, having previously been employed by St Edmundsbury Borough Council.

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

The town council created the new role to deal with small maintenance issues that have been left undone. The council has provided Mr Hannon with a new set of tools and equipment and a van to get around town. He will be working 22½ hours each week.

Town clerk Colin Poole told councillors at a meeting of the town council's leisure and community committee last Tuesday: "None of the work the parish handyman is going to be doing is stuff that the town council is meant to do. It's just the fact that the people of Haverhill are having to live with stuff left undone."

In his first week, jobs Mr Hannon has completed include clearing litter and weeds from behind and in front of the arts centre, and doing similar work at locations along the High Street including Boots and Costa. Other work included removing flyposting in the Cleales car park and clearing branches obscuring the sign at the Duddery Hill bus stop – as well as many other small pieces of maintenance to keep the town looking clean and tidy.

Mr Hannon said: "I have lived here for quite a long time now. I just want to keep the place looking great. New developments are happening in the town so I just want to do my bit."

If you've noticed a maintenance task that needs doing, or have reported one to the borough or county council that has not yet been completed, contact Mr Poole on (01440) 712 858.

CRIME

Almost 1,000 drivers caught speeding

NEARLY 1,000 drivers across the county have been caught speeding in a police crackdown.

Officers from the roads policing unit and vans from Norfolk Safety Camera Partnership and Suffolk SafeCam were deployed across both counties as part of a Europe-wide campaign.

In Suffolk, 942 drivers were clocked speeding, with 839 being caught by speed cameras.

Motorists caught speeding face a £100 fine and three points on their licence.

Chief Inspector Kris Barnard, who runs the roads policing unit, said: "Speeding is recognised as one of the 'fatal four' offences which leads to people being killed or seriously injured in a collision along with drink driving, using a mobile phone and not wearing a seat belt."

The campaign co-ordinated by traffic police network TISPOL, ran from April 18 to 24.

Will you join charity walk?

LIKE many of your readers, I've had close family and friends affected by breast cancer. That is why I'm encouraging everyone to take a step forward for women with breast cancer this summer and sign up to a Pink Ribbonwalk to raise vital funds for leading charity Breast Cancer Care.

With 5, 10 and 20 mile walks to choose from, you can get together with friends and family in some of the UK's most beautiful countryside and iconic cities including: Blenheim Palace in Oxfordshire; Polesden Lacey in Surrey; Chatsworth in Derbyshire; Stourhead in Wiltshire; London; and Glasgow.

I've taken part in five Pink Ribbonwalks now and it really is so much more than just a day out! Sadly every year, 60,000 people will receive the devastating news that they have breast cancer. But with your help the charity can continue to offer them vital care, support and information, every day, from day one. Also May is National Walking Month – so really there's no better time to lace up your boots and take a step forward for women with breast cancer.

Nan and Pops focus on future

I WANTED to raise your attention to an often under-celebrated army that is supporting the education dreams of future generations.

Grandparents, of all ages, are today playing a vital role in helping their grandchildren get an education. Research carried out by Saga Investment Services found that a third of grandparents are providing childcare outside of school hours, 31 per cent are spending time helping them learn, 15 per cent are doing the school run and a huge 47 per cent are on call if their grandchildren are poorly when at school. All of significant interest at the time when the Government is actively considering creating a system to allow grandparental leave from the workplace.

And this support is only the start

■ We love to see your pictures. Send them in JPEG format marked 'Your Pictures' to wendy.davey@cambridge-news.co.uk. Please add your name, address and daytime telephone number, where you took the photo and, if possible, a picture of yourself! We reserve the right to reuse pictures at our discretion.

of it. We were particularly interested in whether grandparents are also playing a role in the funding of education – be that of uniforms at primary school, musical instruments or laptops at secondary school, or providing a critical funding line for the increasingly expensive step of higher education. What we found was interesting.

More than one in three grandparents with grandchildren of education age are either helping them out financially now, or plan to in the future. And we aren't talking pocket money here. This generous group is contributing what we estimate to be a huge £6.4bn every year to the education of grandchildren across the UK.

Critically, this isn't because their children are going cap in hand to ask for financial assistance. The great majority of grandparents say they are primarily motivated seeing where their money is going while they are alive and because it feels like a lasting legacy. In fact, they are the ones initiating the conversation about contributing, with two thirds of the grandparents interviewed saying they prompted the conversation.

Grandparents are particularly interested in helping create higher education funds for their grandchildren and with university students needing to find upwards of £15,000 a year to meet the cost of courses and living, their contribution could go a long way to helping make these higher education dreams a reality. Grandparents currently contributing to their grandchild's education say they are putting away an average £181 each month. If that was invested over a child's school years, growing by 5 per cent per year, they could end up with a £39,000 lasting legacy to help fund education, depending on how they invest the money.

So if starting at school is starting conversations about the future, we would urge families to think big and get planning now.

Let the Syrian children in

WE welcome the government's commitment to resettle Syrian refugee children from Europe. Barnardo's strongly urge the government to work with local councils and voluntary sector organisations to establish a plan urgently on how these children will be resettled and cared for.

This plan should set out details of a dispersal mechanism, long-term funding and specialist support so that these children can recover from the trauma they have suffered and integrate into their new communities.

ELECTIONS

UKIP win both seats in council by-elections

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

TWO UKIP candidates have won seats previously held by a Conservative on the borough and county council.

Last Thursday, Haverhill voters turned out to choose a St Edmundsbury Borough councillor for Haverhill North and a Suffolk County councillor in Haverhill Cangle – as well as voting in Suffolk's Police and Crime Commissioner elections.

The council by-elections had been triggered by the death of Conservative borough and county councillor Tim Marks.

Among those standing in the county council elections was Cllr Marks' widow Margaret Marks, the Conservative candidate – but UKIP's John Burns beat her to the seat by a margin of 105 votes.

In the St Edmundsbury Borough Council elections, UKIP's Anthony Williams won by a margin of 103 votes. His nearest rival was Labour's Maureen Byrne.

Cllrs Burns and Williams re-

ELECTED: Councillors John Burns and Anthony Williams and Police and Crime Commissioner Tim Passmore leased this statement: "We would like to thank those that voted for us in the recent by-elections caused by the sad loss of Tim Marks."

"We will continue to work and fight for Haverhill first, and ALL of its residents and businesses, without fear of political interference in our decisions."

"We would also like to thank the other candidates in conducting a most dignified campaign with a special mention for Margaret Marks."

In the Police and Crime Commissioner elections, incumbent Tory Tim Passmore was elected with 68,093 first and second-preference votes. The next most popular candidate was Labour's Cath Pickles, who received 41,631 votes.

Mr Passmore said: "My deep and heartfelt thanks to all the people who voted for me and supported me, and I am there to represent all people in Suffolk whether they voted for me or not."

NEWS IN BRIEF

Armed police called to disturbance in town

ARMED police were called to Haverhill in the early morning last week.

Officers responded to reports of a group arguing and fighting in a property on the town's Chauntry Road, spilling out on to the street, on May 3 at around 3.50am.

They believed that weapons may have been involved. Witnesses are asked to call 101 quoting crime reference 37/31836/16.

Don't forget to come to town meeting

HAVERHILL's annual town meeting is set to take place on Tuesday at 7pm at the Haverhill Arts Centre.

There will be an opportunity for residents to ask the outgoing mayor, Betty McLatchy, questions about issues in the town.

The evening will also involve the mayor-making ceremony for the new mayor for the 2016-17 year.

SCHOOLS MUST TEACH: Matthew Hancock

Parents backing campaign over fines

HANNAH MIRSKY

@HannahMirskyCN

PARLIAMENT is set to debate abolishing fines for parents who take their children out of school in term-time – after West Suffolk parents supported the idea.

A national petition calling for the £60 fines to be abolished has been signed by over 113,000 parents – well over the 100,000 needed for a debate in parliament.

West Suffolk is the constituency across Norfolk and Suffolk which has the highest support for the campaign, with more than 450 signatures coming from the area.

MP for West Suffolk Matthew Hancock said: "I understand the frustration that some parents express, but it's also very important for schools to be able to teach.

"I appreciate at times there are exceptional circumstances when a child cannot attend school, and agreeing these absences with a headteacher is important, so that they can take a view in the best interests of the child's education, and take into account any impact on the rest of the school."

Under the present system, in both academies and local authority-maintained schools, the decision is with the headteacher whether or not to report unauthorised absences to the local authority.

Once the absence has been reported to the local authority – which for Haverhill schools is Suffolk County Council – the council has an obligation to investigate. This could lead to a £60 per parent, per child, fine.

Howard Lay, chief executive of Samuel Ward Academy Trust, said: "We are a trust with strong values and believe that strong families are paramount in the development of children and their well being.

"We recognise that at times it is necessary for children to be away from school in order to strengthen family ties especially if close relations live many miles away.

"Clearly regular, sustained or frivolous missing of school will damage learning and ultimately outcomes. So I feel we must be pragmatic, balancing the needs of school against the needs of families. A sensible, reasonable approach by all parties is what is required."

Looking back into the past

ANIMAL PENS: Children and traders at Haverhill's cattle market in 1949, with the Corn Exchange visible in the background

Haverhill's Corn Exchange has been derelict for 10 years – but recent developments mean it could be sold to a new owner by the end of 2016. At this turning-point in the building's history, HANNAH MIRSKY spoke to a local history group about what the Corn Exchange had been used for over the decades – and discovered tales of cinemas, social clubs and more . . .

WALKING down Haverhill's Withersfield Road, it would be easy to pass the Corn Exchange, with its boarded-up windows and weeds growing from the brickwork, without a second glance.

But this building – which both the town council and a private buyer are hoping to bid on this year – has been a community hub for residents since the 19th century.

The Withersfield Road building is the town's second Corn Exchange. It was built after the previous one – which still stands by the factory gates near St Mary's Church – was given to the Temperance Society in 1887.

A community effort got the project off the ground, with residents buying shares in the "Haverhill Corn Exchange Company" to raise the funds.

The main function of the building was, unsurprisingly, for farmers and traders to buy and sell corn. The exchange opened for business in 1888 and functioned alongside a cattle market behind the building, in what is now the Rose and Crown car park.

Roy Brazier, chair of the Haverhill and District Local History Group, said: "People would bring a little bag of corn and say: 'Is this corn good enough for you?'" The buyers of the corn then sold it on to the mills.

But from its earliest days the building was used for arts and community events as well.

Minutes of the Haverhill Corn Exchange Company's meetings reveal that by 1890 they were already receiving applications to use the space for dramatic performances and dance classes – and had to hurriedly purchase chairs to find the audience somewhere to sit.

Cultural events at the Corn Exchange continued in 1912, when it briefly became the first cinema in Haverhill.

Mr Brazier said: "It worked for about two or three months until they decided to do a matinee

COMMUNITY

£50k community cafe set to open

A £50,000 pop-up community cafe could be open by the end of July.

CHEX in the Chalkstone Community Centre in Strabourg Square, Haverhill, will provide support for groups and a place for residents to meet.

Project manager Sharon Gower said: "CHEX is all about meeting the social and emotional needs of the community.

"We hope that CHEX can play its part in further developing Chalkstone Community Centre so that it can become the real social hub that it once was."

The cafe – part of the work of the River of Life Church – will have seating areas and refreshments alongside sessions run by community support groups.

Sharon said there was a need for groups for people with unseen illnesses, a parent and toddler group and a ladies' self esteem course.

The "unseen illnesses"

HANNAH MIRSKY

@HannahMirskyCN

group – set to run on Mondays – would be for anyone with an illness that was not immediately obvious, as well as for their families and those who care for them. Included would be those with mental health problems, but also people with illnesses such as Crohn's disease, colitis and fibromyalgia which have no visible symptoms.

The CHEX cafe would also be open on Thursdays, with the parents and toddler group running alongside it.

Sharon said the group would provide a new place for parents on the Chalkstone Estate to go after the On Track children's centre in Strabourg Square closed early last year.

In October half term, CHEX would also be running self esteem courses called "Shine" for women and teenage girls.

Sharon, who has attended a Shine course herself in Cambridge, said: "The sessions involve an element of a presentation, there are videos. There's always something for the ladies to take part in and share their stories with each other."

The cafe project has been made possible by £50,000 funding from money raised by HealthIntend through the People's Health Lottery. The funding, which will be released bit by bit over two years, was secured on April 25.

Sharon, who has lived on the Chalkstone Estate for seven of the 17 years she has been a Haverhill resident, is looking for volunteers to help run the cafe and to become part of the steering group. Call her on 07961096659, email info@chexhaverhill.org.uk or visit facebook.com/chexhaverhill if you want to take part.

PRETTY IN PINK: Walkers at the launch of this year's Girls Night Out

Hundreds sign up for charity walk

HUNDREDS of early birds have already signed up to wear bunny ears for a charity walk.

The annual St Nicholas Hospice Care Girls Night Out involves women walking either six or 11.2 miles around Bury St Edmunds in pyjamas and wearing bunny ears to raise money for the charity, which runs the Burton Centre in Camps Road, Haverhill.

Almost 100 Haverhill women took part last year and the charity is hoping to increase that number.

A discount offer – £10 registration rather than £15 – is available until the end of May, and 619 women have already signed up.

'Singing has helped me

When Lisa Kennedy's husband Mike lost his seven-year battle with cancer aged just 39, she was consumed with grief. But singing helped her through those darkest of times – and that's why the local soprano staged an opera concert in his honour. She tells Lydia Fallon her story.

"MISS his laughter the most. We used to laugh a lot, and not about things that other people would find funny!

"He was so very, very kind too. Nobody had a bad word to say about him. Even though he was going through so much, he never thought about himself, he was always thinking about other people."

Lisa Kennedy's eyes light up when she talks about her husband, Mike, "an amazing man", whose life was cut heartbreakingly short when he died in February 2014, aged just 39.

Mike had been diagnosed with late stage bowel cancer in 2006. Doctors thought he might not even survive six months but, against all odds, Mike battled the disease for seven years, just long enough to see his only son Robbie celebrate his seventeenth birthday.

"I think his positive attitude was a big part of why Mike survived," says Lisa, who lives in Linton. "He never thought he'd die; right until the end he had some sort of hope. He was enduring so much pain, but he always kept going: he had nerves of steel."

It was, Lisa concedes, a heartbreaking time, but in the moments of despair, they found a lifeline in the support of the "wonderful" Arthur Rank Hospice Charity.

"Nothing was too much trouble," she says. "We were given equipment and training; we had carers coming in every day to wash and dress Mike; we had the community cancer nursing team to administer and monitor Mike's drugs; they organised a trip to Winter Wonderland for Robbie – it really was amazing what they did for Mike and us as a family."

"The support we received did not change what we were going through, but it enabled us to cope."

As a way of saying thank you, and honouring Mike's memory, Lisa, who is a classically trained soprano, held a concert to raise money for Arthur Rank's Hospice at Home service. It took place at St Mary's Church in Linton last weekend, and Lisa, plus friends Rachel Godsill and Anne Bradley, performed arias and duets by Mozart, Puccini and Verdi.

She says: "It was wonderful to be able to do something in memory of my husband but also to thank the hospice. I was kind of euphoric on Sunday and Monday. It's a very emotional thing doing something like that."

The event raised £1,800 for the hospice – well over Lisa's initial £500 fundraising target – and was attended by 150 people, who gave the performers a standing ovation at the end of the night.

"I don't want Mike's death to be in vain," said Lisa.

"Singing is something which has helped me through this nightmare. It's something I did for me, and it took me out of everything we were going through."

"I remember the last time Mike saw me sing was in June 2013, and he cried. I think he was trying to stay alive to see me in my first opera, but he didn't quite make it. It was a week after he died."

Mike and Lisa met at Huddersfield University in 1999, after locking eyes

through this nightmare'

at the uni's Christian Union. "I was on the committee and he said he noticed me as soon as he saw me, but I didn't notice him," Lisa laughs.

Eventually, Mike managed to get her attention; they were engaged within three months, and married 18 months later at Oakes Baptist Church in Huddersfield. "We were so close; we did really love each other," she smiles.

Seven years into their marriage, Lisa and Mike started trying for a family. "We booked an amazing holiday to Sorrento in Italy, and that's where I discovered I was pregnant with Robbie. We were so happy at that point, everything seemed to be slotting into place," recalls Lisa.

But their joy was short-lived. It soon transpired that Mike had been suffering a lot of pain when going to the toilet, and had visited the doctors about his concerns a number of times. "I think he hid the true extent of the pain from me, and the doctors just kept writing it off. Nobody really took him seriously because you just don't associate bowel cancer with young people," says Lisa.

He was eventually referred to Frimley Park Hospital in Surrey for a colonoscopy, "and the next thing I know I'm getting this very strange phone call saying I need to come in, and that's when it hit me something was seriously wrong."

The consultant sat the couple down in a room and delivered the heart-breaking news: it was cancer. At that moment, their whole world fell apart.

"They told us the growth was so large it was breaking out of the bowel and the cancer had already spread into the liver," recalls Lisa. "We were absolutely devastated; just unable to take it in: I was 29, and five months pregnant, Mike was 32 – and it's just the last thing you expect."

Things moved swiftly. Mike had a stoma and colostomy bag fitted, and started radiotherapy and chemotherapy in preparation for a major bowel resection, scheduled for three weeks after Lisa's due date.

"I remember sitting in the hospital while Mike was having chemo, sometimes for nine hours at a time and heavily pregnant, looking around and realising everyone was twice my age; you can't help but think 'Why us?'."

The couple welcomed Robbie into the world on January 11, 2007. A beautiful, healthy baby boy, amid all the darkness, their new son was, Lisa says, a very welcome ray of light. "Having something positive to focus on made such a difference to both of us."

The couple and their newborn son only had three weeks together before Mike was back in hospital for his operation, which was quickly followed by further chemo and a liver resection.

The family enjoyed a year of relative normality in 2008, and were hopeful the worst was behind them, but all hopes were dashed by the devastating news that the cancer was in his lymph nodes, and later his abdomen and spine.

"From then it was a downhill struggle," sighs Lisa, who admits she suffered with depression for a time. "I've never seen someone in so much pain as him; he was on some serious medication and it didn't really touch it. It's the hardest thing when someone you love is in that much pain, and there is nothing you can do to help; it was agony to watch."

"The chemo was the worst part, it was almost worse than the cancer. I wish they could invent something else, because the one thing I always remember is going into hospital with Mike in the morning, and we'd be laughing and joking about something, but they'd start putting those drugs in and it was like he had a personality transplant, the life was sucked out of him. He couldn't even smile."

Mike, Lisa and Robbie moved to Linton in 2011, and it was during this period the family came into contact with Arthur Rank. "Just little things, like the complementary therapy they organised for Mike and I, make such a big difference when you're going through so much stress and trauma. To have just half an hour to yourself where someone is looking after you and pampering you, is so valuable," Lisa says.

By 2012, Mike's pain had reached a frightening peak, and he was admitted to the hospice as an in-patient. "I was worried he might not come home again, but thankfully they managed to stabilise him."

During those two weeks, Lisa was touched by the kindness shown by the Arthur Rank staff. "What's so special about the hospice is nothing is too much trouble. It's all about making you happy, and making you feel better. They even bring you beer and wine, and even though that might sound ridiculous – it's just a glass of wine – when you're ill, those little pleasures mean so much."

With Mike's health deteriorating fast, Lisa sensed the end was coming, and vowed to make the most of the time they did have left together.

"We made some really precious memories," smiles Lisa. "One day I'll always remember was in Verona in 2013, the home of Romeo and Juliet."

"We visited the sites and had some time to ourselves. It was a beautiful day."

"I also remember a meal we had in the hotel on our wedding anniversary, just the two of us, and Mike gave me a new wedding ring. We both had a bit of a moment."

By November 2013, now practically immobile due to lymphedema in his legs and cancer in the spine, Mike was admitted to the hospice again, specifically for end-of-life care, "but he was desperate to be at home. He wanted to be with us," Lisa recalls.

Mike's wishes were made possible by Arthur Rank's Hospice at Home team, who did everything they could to ensure the family had the support they needed to look after Mike at home. "They came almost every night before Mike died. Being a mum with a young child I wouldn't have been able to cope without them."

It's been more than two years since Mike died, but he is, Lisa says, always in their thoughts. "We talk about him all the time, and include him in everything we do."

And on Saturday night, when Lisa sang in front of the many people who knew and loved Mike, there was only one person on her mind: "my loving husband and Robbie's wonderful father".

"I've never seen someone in so much pain as him. It's the hardest thing when someone you love is in that much pain, and there is nothing you can do to help; it was agony to watch."

Fun day helps to smash £10k charity fundraising target

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

A PAIR of fundraisers have smashed their £10,000 target with just two events – and now they're planning on raising more.

Kerry Farrant, of Haverhill's Mill Hill, and Emma Williams, of the town's Strawberry Fields, put on a family fun day at the New Croft in Chalkstone Way on Sunday. It included fairground rides, a car boot sale, stalls, inflatables and dance performances.

Kerry said: "It was mega. It really couldn't have gone any better."

She estimated that thousands of people attended the event, which took place in 23C sunshine.

The day was part of a series of "My Mum, My Dad" fundraising events organised by the pair after each of them lost a parent to cancer.

The fun day raised £9,100 and followed a bingo night on March 5 which raised £1,300 – meaning that they have already hit their target of £10,000.

The money will be divided between the Addenbrooke's oncology ward and St Nicholas Hospice Care.

Now Kerry and Emma are planning three more events to see if they can double or triple that figure.

The first is a lazy car boot sale on Sunday, June 5, the second another bingo evening on Friday, June 10, and the third is a 90s revival disco on Saturday, July 2. All of the events are set to take place at the New Croft.

If you would like to find out more or book a place at any of these events, call Kerry on 07824 883 094 or Emma on 07956 192 044.

Show is free – unless you laugh

A UNIQUE comedy event is coming to Haverhill Arts Centre – and you only have to pay if you like it.

New York comedian Lewis Schaffer's "Free until Famous" tour allows you to enjoy the acclaimed stand-up without the commitment of buying a ticket, and pay at the end if you laughed.

The American, who became a regular on the London comedy circuit after moving to the UK in 2000, tells the story of tackling his self-doubt.

He will tell how he attempted to embrace self-love and acceptance and overcome failure, with surprising results.

Praised by such big names as American comedian Stewart Lee, Schaffer received four and five-star reviews for the show at the Edinburgh Fringe this year.

Although the show, at 8pm on Saturday, May 14, is free, it's also ticketed, so make sure you book your place.

You can book by visiting www.haverhillartscentre.co.uk or by calling the box office on (01440) 714 140.

■ Thursday, May 12 – Friday, May 20

■ Today, the arts centre has a second screening of Mark Strong in the acclaimed National Theatre production of Arthur Miller's tragic masterpiece, A View from the Bridge. Eddie, the Italian-American Longshore man, welcomes his Sicilian cousins to New York, one of them falls for his beautiful niece and things start to go awry. Mark Strong won the best actor in the 2014 Olivier Awards and Ivo Van Hove won best director.

■ There'll be plenty of twanging and guitar-slides tomorrow at 7.30pm with The Country Superstars Experience, not to mention fringes and cowboy hats. Dolly Parton tribute artist Sarah Jayne and vocal impersonator, Andy Crust, take a trip back to country music's heyday with tributes to Dolly, Patsy Cline, Johnny Cash, Billie Jo Spears, Kenny Rogers, Willie Nelson and John Denver. Yeehaa!

■ The arts centre has an unusual comedy event on Saturday, May 14. Lewis Schaffer, the American stand-up comedian is performing his Free Until Famous Show. Tickets are free – unless you laugh – in which case Lewis is asking for your discretionary donations. Lewis has become a cult on the London comedy scene and this latest show sees him attempt to overcome his obsession with failure and embrace love. Come along at 8pm and see if Lewis is going home with a fat pay-packet – or empty pockets.

■ After their previous concerts at the arts centre, the Fureys return to Haverhill for another great night of music, song and stories on Wednesday, May 18, at 8pm. Hear them sing their timeless classics including I Will Love You, When You Were Sweet 16, The Green Fields of France, The Old Man, Red Rose Café, Steal Away plus songs from their new album.

■ Now in his 51st year as a professional musician Froggy (Raymond Froggatt) returns to the arts centre on Friday, May 20, at 7.30pm. Froggy and his band are still in great demand, still touring, still recording, and his songs are still being covered by other stars such as Sir Cliff Richard and Gladys Knight. Don't miss out, give the arts centre a ring.

■ On the cinema front The Big Short (15) – starring Brad Pitt, Ryan Gosling, Steve Carrell and Christian Bale – is showing on Monday, May 16, at 7.30pm. Narrated by potty-mouthed banker Jared Vennett, the film follows various unsavoury high rollers betting on the financial crash of 2008 – and actually winning! Tom Hanks and Mark Rylance star in Steven Spielberg's Bridge of Spies (12A) on Thursday, May 19, at 7.30pm. It's the story of Brooklyn lawyer James Donovan who must negotiate the release of an American spy-plane pilot shot down over Russia in 1960. ■ Forthcoming events include David Hamilton's Rock n Roll Back the Years Show on Saturday, May 28, Jeremy Hardy on Wednesday, June 1, and the return of Blunderbus Theatre Company with The Sorcerer's Apprentice on Thursday, June 2, at 11am and 1.30pm.

How far can you go in BMW's i3 for a fiver?

RESEARCH suggests that 26 per cent of car buyers think electric cars are more expensive to run than conventional combustion-engined cars, but that may not actually be the case. The study commissioned by Go Ultra Low revealed that the average annual maintenance costs for a petrol or diesel car are around £400 – as well as this essential work keeping the car off the road for two days.

Yet the average annual servicing costs for an electric car come in at a more modest £94. With fewer moving parts and also fewer consumables such as engine oil and spark plugs, electric cars spend less time off the road. A previous study by Go Ultra Low also revealed that electric cars cost a sixth as much to run – 2p per mile versus 12p – giving a saving of £750 based on 7,500 miles a year.

Then we were set an even more frugal challenge; was it possible to enjoy a trip out, travelling by electric car, and spend less than a fiver? That's how we found ourselves cruising down the M5 towards Bristol in BMW's eye-catching i3 electric car. It's an intriguing prospect inside and out, looking like nothing else on the road and a project of the near future rather than now.

With a fully charged battery costing less than £2, the i3 promised a range in excess of 90 miles, more than enough for our 40-mile journey. It's also up to you how you drive; in full Eco Pro mode the i3 will encourage you to keep your speed down in order to extend the range, but there's nothing to stop you from hurrying along at 70mph or more. The truth is the experience is more pleasurable at lower speeds, as the silent powertrain does its thing.

Can you go out for a day in an electric car and spend less than £5? Alasdair Suttie puts BMW's i3 to the test

CHARGING AHEAD: The BMW i3 encourages you to relax behind the wheel

The cabin is just as smart as the exterior, with a free-floating dashboard and big glazed area creating an airy cocoon, with the same gadgets you'd find in any other premium car; sat-nav, heated seats, climate control – all taken care of.

Thanks to its compact dimensions, parking was a cinch. Better still, charging points are popping up everywhere, with a number of stations dotted around the city and in major car parks allowing you to top up while you shop or enjoy some leisure time. We had enough charge remaining to go without.

We went for the latter, taking a short walk across the centre to Bristol's intriguing M Shed. It's a museum packed with artefacts from Bristol's fascinating history, fittingly based in the harbour on account of the city's links with maritime trade. The children were more excited about seeing the Wallace and Gromit exhibits of course. Best of all, entry is free.

Our £3 parking stay was nearly up and it was time for the return leg. Even with less battery than on the way out, the i3 encourages you to relax behind the wheel. You can cut and thrust with the best of them – the i3's acceleration is surprisingly strong – but that misses the point. A less hurried approach is good for you and your passengers as well as the environment, and that's a bonus of electric cars that should be embraced.

YETI MONTE CARLO: Range now includes a 1.2 petrol and 2.0 diesel

Skoda expands Yeti Monte Carlo range

SKODA's Yeti Monte Carlo model has proved so popular with buyers that the range has been expanded for 2016.

Originally available with a 148bhp 2.0-litre TDI diesel unit only, the Monte Carlo range now includes the choice of a 1.2-litre TSI petrol with 109bhp and a 2.0-litre TDI diesel with the same output. The TSI petrol can also be specified with the impressive seven-speed dual-clutch DSG transmission.

All versions of the Yeti Monte Carlo come with 17-inch gloss black alloy wheels, bi-Xenon headlights, LED rear lights and black detailing including the roof, door mirrors and spoilers front and rear.

Prices start at £19,700 for the 1.2 TSI model rising to £21,045 for the 2.0 TDI 110PS.

Concours d'Elegance at Haveringham

HAVERINGHAM Hall, the 18th Century country estate in Suffolk, has announced plans to host an inaugural Concours d'Elegance on Saturday, July 2 and Sunday, July 3 in association with auctioneers Bonhams as part of celebrations to mark the Grade I listed Georgian mansion's 20th annual Country Fair and Capability Brown's Tercentenary.

The Concours, which will take place in the 5,000-acre estate's Capability Brown parkland, will play host to 50 spectacular pre and post-war automobiles with trophies available in both these categories.

For more information about the Concours visit concoursdelegance.org.

Too much too young?

Should the minimum legal age for driving be raised to 21? Young drivers are the most vulnerable, so would this protect them? Alisdair Suttie digs for answers

YOUNGER DRIVERS: Only 3 per cent of the driving population, but they account for one third of all accidents on the road. Is this not too high a price for the rest of the population to pay?

By raising the legal minimum driving age to 21 years old, it gives the developing brains of teenagers a chance to gain more experience of driving and life in general. The outlook of a 21-year-old who has perhaps worked for three years or been to university is very different to one that has just left school.

It's also well known in scientific circles that the 17-year-old brain is still developing and not a fully formed adult mind. When driving is such a complex process that involves thousands of decisions every minute to make sure the car is in the right position, at the right speed and fully in control, it seems almost crazy to let such young and inexperienced people have sole influence over the vehicle.

A higher minimum age limit for new drivers also creates more opportunity to instil good habits and sound judgement in new drivers. A blanket ban on drivers until they are 21 is not the best solution. Instead, we should look at teaching the skills needed to make safe drivers from 17 years old so they have four whole years in which to gain the knowledge and ability to cope with such a difficult and diverse range of demands.

Critics of this idea will say new drivers pose a danger, regardless of what age they are, and this is true to some extent. However, in countries such as Finland where new drivers are not just let loose on the road immediately after passing the test, the numbers show there are far fewer collisions per capita involving young drivers.

Far from being a barrier to driving, raising the age limit for a fully-fledged and trained driver to 21 years old is a chance to educate this vulnerable age group. Treat them with respect and help them become good drivers and the rewards benefit everyone.

CHAMPIONS: Haverhill Borough celebrate winning the First Division Cup

Pictures: Gary Brown

Cup triumph for Borough

MARTIN Westcott hailed Haverhill Borough's squad after they defeated Stowmarket Town to lift the Thurlow Nunn League, First Division Cup.

Two goals from Craig Pruden laid the foundations for the 5-0 win at Mildenhall's Recreation Way, with Scott Lodge, Jonny Milne and Matt Staines getting the others.

Player-manager Westcott had been due to withdraw from the starting line-up before kick-off because of illness.

Nevertheless, he was still able to celebrate as his players went on to secure the first cup final win in Borough's history.

"We've had a tough season," said Westcott. "We lost quite a few players in the summer, and we've built and built."

"The last six games of the season, we went unbeaten and came into this in some really good form."

"It's nice to finish with a cup final win and against a really good team like Stowmarket makes it even better."

Football

Pruden put Borough ahead after 10 minutes when he intercepted a wayward pass and they went close to extending that lead when Ryan Swallow hit the post from a free kick.

Lodge added the second with a long-range strike and Milne headed in the third from Rory Bone's cross to put Borough three clear at half time.

Pruden's second goal early in the second half ended the game as contest and Staines finished from close range late on.

But Westcott was just as happy with Borough's defensive display.

"I think I was more pleased with the clean sheet," said Westcott.

"We defended well and Charlie made some really good saves."

"I'm just really happy"

CELEBRATION: Craig Pruden is congratulated on his first goal

JUNIOR JOY: The players who took part in the orange tournament

Paffett brothers do battle in Haverhill tournament

THERE was sibling rivalry at Haverhill Tennis Club as brothers Alfie and Freddie Paffett took part in a competition day.

The pair met in the quarter-finals of the orange under-nine tournament, with older brother Freddie winning 7-5, 7-5.

Paffett beat Amie Hunt 7-5, 6-8, 7-5 to reach the final where he lost to Joseph Fortnum-Adams, who beat Yingham Ho in the semi-finals.
